

NEWS & INSIGHTS

LIGHTFOOT, FRANKLIN & WHITE ANNOUNCES 2017 SUMMER ASSOCIATE CLASS

June 25, 2017

Lightfoot, Franklin & White LLC is pleased to announced its 2017 class of summer associates. It consists of 19 first-year and second-year law students from ten different law schools across the country. Seven are returning for their second summer at Lightfoot.

“We are pleased to welcome this group of law students to Lightfoot for the summer,” said the firm’s managing partner Wynn Shuford. “We look forward to having them here and providing a well-rounded experience of life at Lightfoot.”

The Lightfoot 2017 summer associate class:

First-year law students

- Michael Morrison (University of Alabama School of Law)
- Jazmine Adams (University of Alabama School of Law)
- David Sandefer (University of Chicago Law School)
- Pierce Rigney (Washington and Lee University School of Law)
- Cole Bollman (Washington and Lee University School of Law)
- Madison McMurray (University of Virginia School of Law)
- Alyx Eva (Vanderbilt University Law School)
- Nicole Nielly (University of Georgia School of Law)
- Ryan Parker (Cornell Law School)

Second-year law students

- Amber Hall (University of Alabama School of Law)
- Emily Schreiber (Cumberland School of Law)
- Harris Anthony (Vanderbilt University Law School)
- Christian Kerr (Vanderbilt University Law School)
- Zac Goozee (University of Virginia School of Law)
- Jonathan Murphy (Washington and Lee University School of Law)
- Sam Hobbs (Duke University School of Law)
- Maddie Hughes (University of Alabama School of Law)
- Carter Lorant (Georgetown University Law Center)
- Christine Gwinn (Georgetown University Law Center)