Lightfoot

CORPORATE PLAINTIFF'S LITIGATION

Lightfoot is relentless in helping businesses get the recoveries to which they are entitled.

In today's business environment, companies often must resort to litigation to resolve disputes, enforce contracts or recover damages inflicted on their businesses. Experienced and trusted partners can help businesses navigate this complex process in an efficient and cost-effective manner.

Over the years, we have defended hundreds of business clients in thousands of matters. The knowledge and perspective gained in defending businesses are invaluable when we are called to go on the offensive. Lightfoot attorneys understand both playbooks, giving us the ability to identify potential claims, analyze damages and advise on appropriate steps to remedy those damages.

Lightfoot attorneys have extensive experience pursuing business recoveries. These wide-ranging matters include claims for breach of contract, breach of warranty, fraud and intentional interference with business relations.

In court and through arbitration, Lightfoot has represented business interests in numerous actions, including significant construction cases, disputes over ownership of energy production systems, executive compensation matters, shareholder litigation and insurance coverage disputes.

In most matters, we are willing to explore alternative billing arrangements, with the firm sharing the risks, benefits and expenses related to the litigation.
